KENTUCKIAN NOW HEAD OF U. S. ARMY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.-Brig. Gen. Hugh H. Scott, for many years a conspicuous figure in the United States army, had official notice Saturday that President Wilson had selected him to become chief of staff apon Major General Wotherspoon's orirement next Monday. That change will result in the promotion to Major General of Brig. Gen. Frederick D. Funston, who took command of the forces at Vera Cruz soon after the American occupation, and Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss will become chief of the mobile army division. Gen. Scott will succeed to a major generalship upon the retirement of Major General Murray next April.

Gen. Scott was born in Danville, Ky., in 1853. His services in the army, that began thirty-nine years ago, after his graduation from West Point, has been marked by his various administrations among American Indians and the savage tribes in the Philippines.

As a cavalry lieutenant at border army posts he learned numerous Indian dialects and the language of signs, which enabled him many times to quiet angry tribes threatening warfare. In the Spanish war Gen. Scott received a volunteer commission as major and assistant adjutant general attached to the Fifth army corps. He saw active service on the Mexican border during the Madero revolution, after which he was promoted to brigadier general.

He will serve as chief of staff until 1917, when he retires on account of age. Gen. Bliss, as assistant chief of staff, will retire the same year.

Films to Be Employed in Educational Work.

Great Railroad Will Use Them to Show Result of Workman's Carelessness-Hope to Get Scenes Showing War's Horrors.

The New York Central railroad has had a moving picture "play" constructed around the story of a trainman's carelessness which resulted in an accident in which he was injured, and his family left needy. It has been carted around the great system and shown to employees, on whom it made a great impression. It is announced that a series of moving picture shows will be provided at the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco, to illustrate work of the government departments. The department of agriculture has for some time been doing experimental work, looking to the extensive use of moving pictures to educate farmers, chicken raisers, dairymen, and others, in proper methods. The public health service work is especially susceptible to this kind of presentation in the effort to educate the public.

If somebody has been able, or shall have been able before the war ends, to get some properly impressive films of war scenes, the "movies" will give the world its most striking demonstrations of the desirability of peace and the horrors of war.

FINE TOBACCO PROSPECTS.

Discussing prospects of the tobacco market Silas Shelburne, the veteran Lexington warehouseman, said: "So far as we can see the Burley crop holds a better position than for some years past, the stock on hand at this time being 22,000,000 pounds less than it was at this time last year. The consumption for the last six months from April to October was 110,000,000 pounds, considerably over a half of the entire Burley crop, which shows that the demand is increasing. So, while we do not expect any fancy prices, we expect that the prices paid last year for the same class of tobacco."

GOT REALISM HE WANTED

Film Director Went After Substantial
Thrille, and Pictures Show He Obtained Them.

Ned Finley, one of the Vitagraph directors, believes in realism and always makes every effort to inject substantial thrills in his pictures, often going to the extreme limit of caution. In a very recent film story on which he was at work, he engaged the services of a sharpshooter, whose duty was to make a "hit" as close to the director as he dared. The scene of the picture shows Mr. Finley shooting from a dismantled barn with bullets splintering the wood within a few inches of his body. In the same picture, Mr. Finley falls from a horse and rolls down an embankment. The first time he essayed the fall, it was so realistic that a new camera man became so interested in its sensational realism he neglected to film the scene. A second attempt, the next day, was spoiled by a spectator, who, thinking Mr. Finley was hurt, rushed in front of the camera. The third time was successful, so far as the actual taking of the scene was concerned, but Mr. Finley, in his headlong descent down the embankment, failed to notice a tree stump and a collision resulted in a very much bruised director, but a happy one, because of his realistic ambitions being fully real-

Stars in a New Play.

Blanche Sweet is featured in "For Her Father's Sins," a two-reel film department store owner, leaves her home and works under an assumed name to learn how the underpaid clerks live.

As the result of her investigations, she forces her father to increase the wages of his employees and incidentally saves him from being killed by a and Mississippi, on sale first and third dissatisfied workman. A pretty romance is woven into the production. Wallace Reid, Billie West and Al scenario was written by Anita Doos.

> New Series of Plays. Four new series of photoplays by prominent authors are announced for future presentation. Each play will be complete in itself, treating an individual incident. "Below the Dead Line," by Scott Campbell, will be a detective series; "Young Lord Stranleigh," adapted from the stories by Robert Barr, which appeared in a well-known weekly, will be produced in four two-reel subjects; "Olive's Opportunities," written especially for motion pictures by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, and "The Girl Who Earns Her Own Living," by Mark Swan, are the other future serial plays.

> > Novel Moving Picture.

A novelty in motion picture presentation is promised in the forthcoming moving picture, entitled "The Bachelor's Baby," a comedy drama, in which two tiny children take the leading parts. The story deals with a wealthy girl's financial ruin, her fight to support herself as a governess, and her final reconciliation to her former sweetheart through the children she cares for.

Hoosier Poet Seen in Films.

An interesting future Selig production is a drama based on James Whitcomb Riley's famous first poem, "The Ole Swimmin' Hole." The noted poet will himself be seen on the screen in a prologue.

Bernstein's Play to Be Filmed. Henri Bernstein's dramatic success. "The Thief," which was produced in will soon be "filmed."

SHORT SKIRTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.

In the name of Charity a wonderful efte has just been given-a fashion fete where only American designed gowns were displayed! The proceeds are to go to aid the suffering Belgian women and children. It is safe to say that many families will be thankful to the enterprising society people in New York who are responsible for the success of this fete.

The foremost dressmakers in New York City displayed their gowns, which were designed especially for the occasion, each hoping, by some original idea to catch the eyes of the fashionable audience and secure their custom to themselves.
